

Television's new Dr Who, Tom Baker, with a "Cyberman". Mr Baker, aged 40, the fourth Dr Who, will be creating the role on film over the next nine months and is to appear before young viewers about Christmas. "I want to play him in an individual way", he said, "with the suggestion that although he has a human body he comes from somewhere else." Jon Pertwee is quitting the series after four years as Dr Who.